

INTERMEDIATE TEAM WINS AT WATER POLO

Parsons Shows up well, Scoring Two Goals in His First Game

MUCH SCRAPPING McGill Gains an Advantage in Intermediate City League

The fans at the M. A. A. Tank last night saw the best exhibition of water-polo that has ever been staged. From this affray of legs and arms McGill came out deserving victory, by 5-2. The score at full time was one all and in the third overtime period McGill scored once while in the last, both teams counted. McGill were without Kyle at forward but Parsons although nursing a football knee volunteered and played the game of the night scoring two goals. The M. A. A. team was strengthened by the return of Frank McGill, a senior star of a year ago and he too notched up two goals for his team.

The play began fast and Clarholme got away with the ball. The M. A. A. shot often but Parsons at defence cleared well. McGill, in the shallow end, brought the play up and a long pass to Forsythe did not quite find its desired end. The keeper for M. A. A. was rather anxious to clear and came out of his allotted area and was penalised from which McGill did not gain much. With the chance that McGill had they should have scored. When the play went back to the shallow end, MacLaren tackled well and kept the forwards at bay although there was repeated shooting. Moore did good work but his shot hit the cross bar. Clarholme swam well and came up to the tank but he also hit the post.

McGill—M. A. A. 0
On the change over the M. A. A. attacked hard but Jardine saved repeatedly. F. McGill gave an under-water swim but Forsythe spotted and checked him. The play went into the centre and the short passes kept the men on the go all the while Parsons in the shallow end was tackled and held but he shot well. His opponent was put off for a time penalty. From a free throw by Clarholme, Parsons netted. The M. A. A. attacked again and Allan shot with speed but in vain. Forsythe kept on his man and the play staying (Continued on Page 3)

McGILL LIBRARY GETS MANUSCRIPTS

Oriental Collection to be Enriched by Donation

Dr. G. R. Lomer, librarian of the McGill Redpath library, announced that within a few days, the Oriental collection will be enriched by the addition of about twenty Sinhalese manuscripts and several rare style, all from Ceylon.

They were mailed here by Dr. Casey H. Wood the donor, who also sent letters describing them.

Dr. Wood, who has been travelling around the world, spent the last year in Ceylon where he made the collection.

In the consignment of curios are an ancient brass medicine box and Sinhalese crystal pince-nez which are to be given to the medical library. The olas, or book manuscripts, that are to be exhibited will be of various sizes and kinds and with one is a 17th century pen. In a paper by Dr. Andrew Neil of Kandy, Ceylon, an account is given of the ola and its relation to Sinhalese literature and archaeology. The store of old manuscripts in monasteries and other libraries of Ceylon is considerable and they contain works of all sorts as they were for many centuries the sole library of the people.

These manuscripts are written on strips of papyrus prepared from the immature, unopened fronds of the Talipot and Palmyra palms.

The subjects treated are religion, history, magic, geography, astronomy, medicine, folk lore, local legends and poetry. All the Ceylon chronicles are a mixture of myth legend and actual history, and much of the poetry is copied from Sanskrit originals imported from India by the monastic scribes. The old books are found in three languages, Sanskrit, Pali, and Sinhalese, and although some of the original works were composed as early as the 4th century A.D., the earliest found are about 700 years old. The books themselves ancient, modern and medieval appear as fat bundles of oblong leaves uniformly two and half inches wide but varying in length from a few inches to 3 feet. The leaves are held between two wooden covers by a cord attached at one end to a button and at the other to a ball or simple knot.

The preparation of every part of the ola is definitely prescribed by customs centuries old. The page is written on both sides, and the scribe, if right handed, cuts a notch in his left finger nail which is allowed to grow long for the purpose, and in the angle of the cut rests his stylus like the sculling oar in the stem of a boat.

The stylus in the collection are composed of an official stylus and knife of the court scribe which is a combination of dagger and stylus and is lavishly decorated and is used by pupils in the monasteries.

VALUABLE VOLUME REACHES LIBRARY

Redpath Library Now Houses 200,000 Books

To mark the occasion of the inclusion of the 2 hundred-thousandth book on their shelves, a rare literary prize was added to the Redpath Library yesterday afternoon. The book, entitled "Man and His Parts", is the gift of Francis McLennan, one of the library's benefactors. This rare work on Anatomy, was written by Girolamo Boncompagni, Archbishop of Bologna, and was printed in that city in 1683. The work was compiled and explained with illustrations from sacred and secular authors, in two separate books, by Ottavio Scarletini, Canon of the Lateran, Doctor of Theology, preacher. The volumes still have the original white vellum binding and are in an excellent state of preservation.

February 7, University of Toronto, two meetings, one set debate and one parliamentary; February 11, Western University; February 15, Port William Canadian Club; February 17, University of Manitoba; February 21, University of Saskatchewan; February 24, University of Alberta; March 5, University of British Columbia.

The team will arrive on the steam-er Montcalm and when in Western Canada will make a short sightseeing tour through the beauty spots of the West.

Toronto To Have Longer School Term

Special to McGill Daily

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Students at the University of Toronto will have to remain around the campus until three days before Christmas unless they are to miss lectures. An announcement made here today by Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University states that the fall term cannot close earlier than December 22.

When pressed for an explanation for reason for this late closing date the president pointed out that the University term had begun particularly late this session and that it was impossible to cut the term still shorter. Many professors had indicated that they would be unable to complete their courses satisfactorily if they were not allowed the additional days before the Christmas vacation.

Holiday plans of a good number of students are being changed as a result of this order.

ADDRESS WILL BE GIVEN BY MURRAY BROOKS

Meeting for all Students Today at Five

STRATHCONA HALL

Speaker will Deal with Present Day Mission Outlook

This afternoon at five o'clock McGill students will have an opportunity of hearing Mr. Murray Brooks, who has been in close touch with Y.M.C.A. work in Ceylon for a number of years. Besides this, he has travelled a good deal in the East and knows of the difficulties that are at present dividing the people of India into almost irreconcilable sections. His address will take the form of a thorough survey of the "Modern View of Missions". It is a well-known fact that the missionary task is a very great one, and there is doubt that it demands widespread and intelligent attention.

Mr. Brooks is a graduate of McGill, and for several years after his graduation was the secretary of Strathcona Hall. Following this he went to Colombo, Ceylon, to take the position of Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., there, which has been for the last twenty years under the direction of the McGill Mission. He has continued to serve in this capacity ever since he went out, and has now returned to take up work here. During the time that Mr. Brooks has been in Ceylon, the work there has expanded considerably, and a few years ago a splendid new building was erected to become the centre of the activities of the Association. That this was possible was due, in no small measure, to the efforts of Murray Brooks.

In his address to-day it is not unlikely that Mr. Brooks will mention the influence of Mahatma Gandhi on the India of the present day. Gandhi has often admitted the power that he has derived in his own life from the message of Christianity, and it is his opinion that if all missionaries came to India in the true spirit of their Master, India could not resist them. Even now doors are opened which have been closed for centuries, and opportunities are being presented on all sides.

A cordial invitation to be present is extended to all men and women students of the university. The meeting will afford the only chance of hearing Mr. Brooks during his visit to Montreal, as he expects to leave the city to-morrow.

PSYCHOLOGISTS WILL DISCUSS NEW SCHOOL

The first meeting of the Psychological Society will be held at 8.15 to-night in Room 108 of the Arts Building. A paper on "Gestalt" Psychology to be delivered by D. H. McVicar, B.A., will be the subject for the evening.

The "Gestalt of Configuration School" is a new one which has arisen in Germany during the past few years. It has extended its concepts into particularly every field of psychology and bids fair, it is stated, to revolutionize many ideas which are now generally accepted.

D. H. McVicar, the speaker, is now

PRO. CHIPMAN WILL ADDRESS UNDERGRADUATES

Noted K.C. and Professor at McGill

"PHILOSOPHY AND LAW"
Philosophical Society will Hold First Meeting Next Week

The Philosophical Society will hold its first meeting for the year on Wednesday, November 25th when Prof. Warwick P. Chipman K. C., will give a paper on "Philosophy and Law."

Mr. Chipman is a B.A. and a B.C.L. of McGill where he is now an Associate Professor of Civil Law, and one of the foremost lawyers of this city. In addition to being a well-known man of letters, Prof. Chipman is a man who has long been interested in all the higher problems of life and citizenship. He has many friends in this city, throughout Canada, and in Europe. Having travelled extensively, Prof. Chipman has a wide range of information and will need no introduction whatever to any Montreal audience. When he speaks before the Philosophical Society next week he is certain of an appreciative hearing.

It has been the procedure of the Philosophical Society for some years to help the cause of Philosophy and of reconstruction generally by getting recognized authorities to speak to the students and their friends on the relations existing between Philosophy and the various Arts and Sciences. It has been privileged to hear read before it, by well known authorities, such papers as "Philosophy and Literature," "Philosophy and Psychology," "Philosophy and Theology," and so on. One of the last of these was a well known published address by Prof. Oertel on "Philosophy and Medicine."

Prof. Chipman is one of those who are thoroughly convinced of the necessity of sound philosophical conceptions in the science and the practice of law. His address will be most instructive to students of McGill University generally, and he is certain to have much of importance to say upon leading questions of the day and of these unsettled times in Canada.

The meeting is to be held in Strathcona Hall at 8.15 p.m. and will be preceded by an executive meeting at 8 p.m. All interested are invited to attend.

There will be a big demand for tickets and it has been decided to restrict the sale to one ticket to one man in order to avoid overcrowding and to accommodate a large turnout of Dental Grads and Undergrads in preference to outsiders attracted by the novelty of the dance.

The committee at its meeting yesterday definitely decided upon a programme which will call for about supper will be served, will follow the seventh dance. It was decided to draw up a programme that would permit the dance to finish about 2.00 a.m.

The committee have invited the Dean of the Faculty of Dentistry of the University of Montreal and the President and Governors of the College of Dental Surgeons of the Province of Quebec, while invitations have also been extended to the representative of the Dental Undergraduates Society of the University of Toronto and University of Montreal.

St. Michaels To Meet McGill Intermediates

(Special to McGill Daily)

Toronto, Nov. 18.—The strong and hitherto undefeated football team of St. Michael's College of the University of Toronto is scheduled to meet the McGill intermediate outfit at the Varsity Stadium this Friday afternoon. Toronto sports critics consider the St. Mike's team one of the finest intermediate squads in the Dominion, some claiming that it is good as many senior aggregations.

When the two teams clash St. Mike's will have the services of Mavor and O'Brien in the backfield. Both these players have been playing steady games throughout the season. The line will be supported by Sheehan and Dore, both of whom have displayed excellent football ability.

LECTURE ROOM PACKED FOR BLISS CARMAN

Gave First Lecture Yesterday

"POETRY AND LIFE"

"A Weather Report of the Climate of Our Spiritual Life"

Describing poetry as "a weather report of the climate of our spiritual life" Bliss Carman in the first lecture of his short course at this University yesterday afternoon put forth a strong argument for the practical use of poetry.

Speaking of "Poetry and Life," Mr. Carman, in the first place stressed the value of cultural education, which he said, took its place side by side with the Sciences. The history of literature he believed was in itself valueless, whereas the science referred to material things, poetry, though seemingly artificial, is, as it were, the weather report of the climate of one's spiritual life.

When Wordsworth wrote about "The Daffodils" he did not stress scientific accuracy, but he meant to portray his own ecstasy to his reader.

An intuitive knowledge of life he said, Mr. Carman was better than scientific knowledge alone.

Happiness is the great aim of all people, and this legitimate for the world to seek it fairly. Poetry expresses the happiness derived from nature.

Replying to a famous assertion to the contrary, Bliss Carman said that there are many things that can be said in poetry that cannot be expressed in prose. Man is subject to spiritual transports, and these moments of elation must have their expression in poetic outbursts.

It is useless to spend one's time over books asserted the speaker; this practice tended to make one merely a walking encyclopedia. There is a poetry to all sides of life—religion, art, and even athletics. Harmony is an essential quality in one's existence. Mr. Carman stated that there is a perfect poem to suit the attitude and condition of each human thing. He cited a personal experience when he was a post-graduate at Boston. Browning was "all the rage at that time" but he could not see the beauty of the great poet's works until he read a certain poem which fitted his case and appealed to him after which he enjoyed Browning above all the other poets.

To say that there is no poetry in modern life, is also, said Bliss Carman. He cited Kipling as an example of a poet who saw beauty in modern modes of life.

In closing, he read Kipling's short poem entitled "The Astrologer's Song," and two poems of M. S. Malloy's. He showed the force of the adaptability of poetry to one's own special experiences.

Finally Mr. Carman declared as a final reason why poetry is a great power for good that often times it reveals some form of life which would not ordinarily appeal to people.

The lecture room was packed full to hear Bliss Carman's address. The poet was given a hearty reception, and his lecture was enthusiastically applauded.

Bliss Carman's next lecture will be given on Friday in Room 105. He will also conduct a conference today at noon.

If any child should attempt to say his prayers on his mother's knees nowadays, she might be arrested for exceeding the speed limit.

LECTURE ON JOHN MANSFIELD TO-DAY

At Meeting of Delta Sigma Society in R. V. C.

"John Mansfield, poet and dramatist," will be the subject of Dr. Brunt's lecture at the meeting of the Delta Sigma Society, this afternoon in the R. V. C. Common Room.

Dr. H. D. Brunt, professor of English at Macdonald College, is a popular and well-known lecturer. Both within the College and elsewhere. Moreover, possesses a thorough knowledge of all the subjects on which he speaks.

His particular topic for this afternoon's programme should prove both interesting and profitable to all who attend the meeting, whether or not they are acquainted with the life and work of John Mansfield.

Mr. Mansfield is a native of England but he has done much travelling abroad and has spent part of his life in the United States. In 1913 he delivered in that country, lectures on the Great War, famous for their literary quality and vital interest. "The Everlasting Mercy," "The Widow in the Bye street" and "The Doffodil Fields," among his longer poems, are ones by which he gained his first popularity. In these are contained that vigour and sincerity rare in modern English literature. His earlier poetry is pervaded by a note-worthy beauty of expression and impression. Mr. Mansfield, like many other Gloucestershire men, followed the sea at one period of his career and his stories of these and other adventures are gripping and full of color and action. The author has the gift of direct and simple narrative and a knowledge of the human heart. In addition to this, he has a genius in the handling of the dramatic form and his plays are tense in situation and impressive in their poetry. His two tragedies "War" and "Pompey," perhaps show these characteristics to the greatest advantage.

All the members of the M.W.S.S. are cordially invited to attend this meeting. Tea will be served at the close of the afternoon's programme.

SCIENCE WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Soccer Team Beats Strong Theologian Eleven

The Science soccer team won the interfaculty championship yesterday afternoon when they defeated a strong eleven representing Theology.

The game was well contested throughout on a field that was very muddy. It was necessary to play overtime to decide the winner. In the extra period, Science gained two goals. Airey and Brain were the scorers.

Even play was the order of the game the ball swinging from end to end. For Science Gavin, Helvig and Brain played vigorously. For Theology Amaron was excellent in goal. Smith was the outstanding player on the field and his work saved the Theologues repeatedly Johnson and Adam also played well in the forward line for the Theology.

This game ends soccer activities for the season with Science winning the championship for the third successive season.

HEAVY VOTE IN SCARLET. KEY ELECTIONS

Science Polls a Record Number

ACCLAMATIONS

No Results at all from Medicine

The elections for the Scarlet Key Society took place yesterday in the faculties of Medicine, Arts, Science and the School of Commerce. What nominations closed some time ago it was found that five candidates were elected by acclamation. Van Vleet and J. G. Porteous for Law, while MacMahon, Volard and Robinson were returned for Dentistry. Following are yesterday's results. In Arts the successful candidates were: Leslie (133); Gammell (122); Davidson (120); Milien (95).

In Science: Burland (233); Giles (202); James (213); Stuart (135).

In Commerce the results show that N. Gordon; J. Little, J. Ross, and H. B. Lebaron were elected. From the Faculty of Medicine the Daily did not receive any results. It is rumored that the poles closed at one o'clock, and that this would necessitate another election being held. The truth of this report could not be ascertained last night. The conduct of the election was placed, as is usual, in faculty elections in the hands of the undergraduate societies by the Students' Council but up to the moment of going to press the executive of the Medical Undergraduate Society could give no information regarding the election.

Science had an enviable record in the number of votes cast. In the first year sixty-five percent voted; in the second eighty percent; in the Junior class about seventy-seven while some eighty-seven percent of the seniors in Science used their rights of franchise.

Henry Ford has been making automobiles for 23 years, and today his business and personal wealth is estimated at more than a billion dollars. A mathematical shark has figured it out that if Henry would quit work now, convert all his wealth into one dollar bills, and start counting them it would take him 120 years to do the job of counting at the rate of $1 a second.

In other words if Henry had started working for $1 a second, $3,600 an hour, it would have taken him 120 years instead of the 23 to have made his money, working eight hours a day.

Take out your watch and watch the hand tick off a second, and then think that for every one of these seconds that have been ticked off in the 24-hour days of the last 23 years, approximately $1.25 has been added to Ford's wealth. And this does not take into account the amount of money he has spent.

FIRST FIELD HOCKEY GAME AT MCGILL

M.S.P.E. Defeat Macdonald Girls in New Sport

SCORE 3-0

Macdonald Team Excelled in Individual Style of Play

Field hockey, a game rarely in evidence on any Canadian Campus but well known in the British Isles, has lately been included in the course followed by the members of the McGill School of Physical Education, who on Tuesday afternoon played a friendly match with the girls of Macdonald College, and, in spite of inexperience won the game with a 3-0 score.

In the first half, the "Mac" girls played an offensive game, particularly in bringing the ball up on the left wing but they were not able to get by the full backs who played consistently. Soon the M. S. P. E. forced their opponents back into defensive play and, taking the ball on the right, by several passes, scored one goal. A number of times they pressed in on goal but the "Mac" girls massed in the striking circle and prevented scoring. The M. S. P. E. team played against a strong wind in the second half but this did not seem to effect their game. Although there was a great deal of hitting the ball back and forth between the two teams, it slowly edged closer to the "Mac" goal and by a couple of quick plays went through for a second point.

The third point for M. S. P. E. was scored near the end of the second half. The right inside dribbled the ball up the field in a pretty play, with both teams in pursuit. On a pass to centre forward, the final score of the day was made. When the whistle blew the score was 3-0. The M. S. P. E. centre forward having done the shooting for each point.

On the whole the game showed the inexperience of the majority of the players. Penalties for "sticks" were too common especially on the M. S. P. E. team and "roll-ins" from out of bounds were poorly taken. The game would have been improved by more dribbling and better team play.

The individual style of the "Mac" players excelled M. S. P. E. Their enthusiasm as well as style of play was probably due to the coaching of their captain who played the game in Scotland.

Diary of a Vanity Fair Man

DIARY OF A VANITY FAIR MAN

April 1—Phyllis called today, but I said I was indisposed and wouldn't see her.
April 3—Today Jane called. She brought me the darlings gloves as a present and took me to the cutest place for tea.
April 5—Alice rang up while I was out buying hairnets. She'll call again tomorrow.

April 4—Alice took me out golfing today. I'm still terribly thrilled. I wore my new knickers and I must say I looked ducky. At the seventh hole, Alice dropped her clubs and, clasping me passionately to her breast, said that I was the man she had been seeking the world over. I coyly asked her whether she told that to every man she took out. I like Alice, but her parents are hardly wealthy enough.

April 5—Lois took me out. She tried to kiss me coming home in the taxi. When I resisted, she called me a heartless little gold-digger. She flashed a big roll when paying the driver. Which information has been duly filed.

April 6—Father chided me today when he noticed me rolling socks. "In his day gentlemen didn't display their charms so brazenly," Father is so old-fashioned!

April 7—Betty advised me to go on the stage. I told her I couldn't pay the price; I hold virtue above all else.
